

Mistakes Be Gone

It's important to learn from our mistakes, as well as move on from them. Erasing mistakes is a handy way to move on, so use this recipe to make your own eraser.

You need:

- Silicon - as much as you want/need for the size of your eraser/s
- Cornflour - No more than a cup
- Paint - a teaspoon
- Mixing stick
- Gloves - it gets a bit messy and sticky

Method:

1. In a bowl add the silicon to the cornflour.
2. Cover the silicon with cornflour then pick it up and knead it adding more cornflour as you go.
3. Add the paint for colour.
4. Knead the mixture until you get a paste that does not stick to your hands, adding cornflour to help with this.
5. Mould the mixture to your desired shape.
6. Set aside to dry for the designated time on the silicon container.
7. Use your erasure to remove mistakes and move on!
